BEHIND The scenes in BUSINESS BY JOHN CRADDOCK

DIVERSIONS—You might not have guessed it, with all the emphasis on defense production, but so far "civilian needs" are still taking 7 per cent of Uncle Sam's steel production. Apparently it can't go on in that ratio very long, for Gano Dunn of the OPM has reported that combined civilian-and-defense requirements this year will exceed capacity by 1,400,000 tons and by 1942 there will be an indicated deficit of 6,400,000 tons. In releasing these figures, President Roosevelt indicated the answer might be to put mandatory priorities on steel to "divert" it from civilian use. At the same time it's reported that about 95 per cent of the total June production of aluminum will be needed for defense purposes. Zinc, "essential oils," gasoline, nickel, and rubber are other materials important to both peacetime and defense production and which, in the new "unlimited emergency," undoubtedly will have to be "diverted" to defense needs to a greater extent than had been anticipated when we first began to hear about priorities.

ACCENT ON MERIT—Fitting in with the streamlining of all national effort in the interests of efficiency and economy in the all-out defense drive is the strong recent trend toward selection of public workers of states on the basis of tested merit rather than "political pull." Commenting on the recent adoption of merit systems by Indiana and Kansas, Mrs. Melville Muckelstone, head of the National Consumers Tax Commission, pointed out that no less than 11 of the 20 states which now use this system have made the change since '37. She urged the other 28 states to "follow suit," saying that in times like now when billions are being spent for armament, public shouldn't be saddled with the unnecessary burden of incompetent state employees. And even in normal times, she said, competent workers are needed to conduct public business, to save the taxpayers' money by rendering better service at less cost. And all will agree that saving the taxpayers' money in every non-defense field is especially important now.

BITS O' BUSINESS—Leading refrigerator manufacturers, for the second time in three months, are advancing prices to keep abreast of rising costs of materials and labor; production is unable to keep abreast with demand; it won't be surprising if the same trend spreads to other lines of electrical household equipment. . . . May almost surely will prove to be the biggest volume month in the history of the automobile industry, with retail deliveries of cars and trucks in the domestic market probably topping 600,000 units. . . . Manufacturers of radio sets may have to be cut down by as much as 25 per cent this year due to aluminum shortage. . . . Kansas reports a shortage of farm labor for the first time since 1929—due to defense work "migrations"—and pay is being raised accordingly. . . . Illinois senate passes a revised cigarette tax bill of 2 cents per package, hoping to raise $10,000,000 new revenue. . . . Texas cotton crop is reported severely handicapped by rain and drift-away of workers to factory jobs.

GASLESS SUNDAYS?—Many a family in the east and midwest last week felt a jolt from the defense program that rattled the garage doors, when defense officials began talking about "rationing" gasoline this summer, and the trade expressed fear the gas price might hit 25 cents a gallon. But in these hurried and harried days, the family bus is more "indispensable" than ever—for carting the kids to school, getting papa to work, and for giving the family needed relaxation with junkets to the country or to the movies—so Mr. Average American is busily figuring how to cut his motoring miles—or the amount of gas he'll need for the summer's driving. J. W. Frazer, president of the Willys-Overland concern, thinks the answer may lie in going back to the old American standby—the four-cylinder engine. He points out that "even a one-third cut in gas allowances, or a similar boost in price wouldn't bother the family that can increase gas mileage from 20 miles per gallon to 30." Four-cylinder engines have proved their stamina, he said, by taking a sizeable number of firsts and seconds in the famous

WEED CLEAN-UP IS URGED BY COUNCIL

City Is Empowered To Do Work And Levy Charge Against Property

Setting something of a record for adjournment, Placerville City Council held its regular meeting Monday night and wound up affairs shortly after ten o'clock.

Aside from routine business, the principal matter of concern was the council's re-iteration of a request for public co-operation in the cleaning up of weeds and other refuse.

Councilmen noted that the public response to the movement for the cleaning up of weeds and refuse, instituted in May, has been good, and expressed hope that the good work might continue in a co-operative spirit.

In the interest of reducing fire hazard in the community and contributing to an improvement of the community's appearance, the council has, some time since, passed a resolution which empowers the city works superintendent to post areas which should be cleaned up but have not been and if, within a reasonable time following such posting, the area is not cleaned up by the owners, the resolution provides that the city may clean up the area and make the charges therefor a lien against the property.

In preparation for this phase of the clean-up movement, the volunteer fire department is setting up burning crews.

The council also granted the application of E. O. Winn and Don Westerman for water service to residences they propose to erect in a homesite tract west of and adjoining the Bungalow Terrace tract.

Variety Show Seat Sale On

Sacramento De Molay Band To Give Concert June 14 At Shakespeare Clubhouse

Tickets for the variety show and concert to be given Saturday evening, June 14th, at the Shakespeare Clubhouse by the Sacramento De Molay band, went on sale Monday and may be obtained from members of the Order of De Molay. The band concert and variety show will be one of the public entertainment highlights of the meeting in Placerville June 13, 14 and 15 of the Sacramento Valley Division of the Order of De Molay. The Sacramento Band is also the official band of the De Molays throughout the world, and has been so declared by the Grand Council of De Molay. The opportunity to hear this fine organization promises an unusual treat for the community.

ROY JAMES SULLIVAN SERVICES HELD ON MONDAY

Funeral services for Roy James Sullivan, 57, carpenter of near El Dorado, were held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon from Memory Chapel. Rev. John Dunlop officiated. Burial was at El Dorado cemetery. Mr. Sullivan died on Saturday at a Placerville hospital. He was a native of Sidney, Australia, and came to America as a boy, serving this country in the Spanish American War and in the World War. Resident in this county approximately ten years, Mr. Sullivan was a carpenter until illness forced his retirement about six months ago.

He is survived by his wife and by two sons, Eugene and Roy James, Jr., and also by one daughter, by an earlier marriage. Efforts to communicate with her were fruitless. Mr. Sullivan also is survived by several brothers and sisters.

Check Suspect Admits Guilt, Asks Probation

Elmer Ray Pyle, charged with issuing worthless checks, pleaded guilty at an arraignment Monday in Superior Court and made application for probation, which will be heard and sentence passed on June 6 at 3:30 o'clock. Arresting officers reported Pyle had served two prior prison terms.

AND NO PARACHUTE!

ISLEY WOODEN LEAVING ARMA STEER, JULY 1930. LISTS FRONTIER DAYS

DEMONSTRATING THE ART of descending gracefully from the back of a Brahma bull, this cowboy seems destined for a certain and sudden landing, and without benefit of parachute. The picture is furnished by Bob Barnby, of Perkins, by way of indicating some of the thrill that are in store for the fans who attend the Pony Express Rodeo, on June 15th, at the El Dorado County Fair Grounds. By contract with the rodeo committee, Barnby will supply more than one hundred head of rodeo stock, including his string of Brahma bulls. Want to ride one?

Habeas Corpus Writ Asked

Rape Defendant Attacks Parent's Complaint Made On Information And Belief

Hearing will be held Wednesday in Superior Court on a petition in behalf of Ford Park, charged with rape, for a writ of habeas corpus.

The grounds set forth in the complaint are that the charges against Park are brought in a complaint sworn to on information and belief by the father of the minor girl in the case.

The petition for issuance of the writ further contends that the site for the act alleged in the complaint is in Mud Springs township and that the Justice's Court for Placerville township was without jurisdiction in the case.

BURGLARY GUILT ADMITTED; CONDITIONAL PROBATION IS GRANTED

Provided Leslie E. Fowler makes restitution in the amount of $100, and serves two months in the county jail starting January 1, 1942, he will be admitted to probation for three years following his admission of guilt on charges of burglary.

This was the ruling of Judge George H. Thompson in passing sentence Monday afternoon.

Fowler admitted burglarizing a cabin on Otter Creek, owned by Charles Burns, the crime being determined to be a burglary in the second degree.

The court ordered that Fowler may delay serving the jail term until January 1, since he is now employed and the family requires his support. It was indicated his work is seasonal in nature and that he will not be regularly employed during the winter.

Mrs. Frank McCaslin was a caller in the county seat from Georgetown Ranger station Tuesday morning.

Frank Allen, of Reno, was a business visitor on Tuesday.

STATE LEADS NATION IN AID PAID TO NEEDY AGED

154,527 In California Received $5,844,102 During April With $18,204 Paid In Month To 471 Residents In El Dorado County

California tops every state in the Union in the number of persons receiving aid to the needy aged, in total payments per person per month, California Taxpayers' Association declared today following its study of population and aid to persons over 65 years of age.

In April, 1941, 154,527 persons received aid to needy aged in California and a total of $5,844,102 in aid was extended to them. In El Dorado county during April, 471 persons were receiving such aid and $18,204 was paid to them, the association stated.

In California more than one out of every four—275 out of every 1,000—persons 65 years of age and over received aid to the needy aged last December, the association found. This is considerably higher than the average for the United States, which is 231 per 1,000. The average aid extended in California of $37.87 was not only the highest in the nation, but was almost twice the United States average of $20.24. During the same month, New York paid only $24.91 to an average of 132 persons per 1,000 persons over 65; the state of Pennsylvania paid $21.96 to an average of 148 per 1,000; Illinois, $22.05, and Ohio $22.99 to an average of 251 each per 1,000 over 65.

The number of persons 65 years old and over increased almost five times as fast as the increase in the total population of the United States from 1930 to 1940, the association stated. The total population of the country increased 7.2 per cent, but the 65 and over increased 35 per cent. In California, the population of the state increased 22 per cent, but the number of persons 65 and over jumped 50 per cent. In only Florida, Louisiana, and Arizona was there a greater percentage increase in persons 65 and over, Florida leading the field with an increase of 82.5 per cent. At the bottom of the list was Vermont, with a 9 per cent increase in numbers of persons 65 and over. "California is not the largest state either in total population or in numbers of persons 65 and over," the association pointed out. "We do, however, exceed all others in the number of persons receiving aged aid and we beat our nearest competitor in total payments per month by more than two and one-half million dollars. We extend aid per case which averaged one-sixth more than our closest rival and is more than double the national average if California is excluded. Not only are we tops when it comes to giving relief, but the number of persons receiving aid to the needy aged increased by at least 1,000 each month during 1940 and the upturn is still in effect during the present year. Every person added to this relief load adds to the payments which must be made and to the burden on the taxpayers. The evidence shows that California is not only most generous in payments to needy persons over 65 but that, with the large proportion of persons over 65 who are receiving such aid, the state is most lenient in its eligibility requirements for such aid."

FATAL SUIT SEQUEL TO DAMAGE WRECK NEAR PLYMOUTH

A suit filed against Elmer Martin, the driver, asks $50,000 damages for the deaths of two youths killed March 16th, in an automobile accident on Highway 49 near Plymouth. Joseph A. and Carrie Berneich filed suit for $25,000 for the death of their son, George A. Berneich, and Caesar and Esther Gonelli sued for the same amount for the death of their son, Caesar Gonelli, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Leavitt and two children and Mr. and Mrs. Matt Miller left Tuesday to spend a week visiting relatives and other friends in Salt Lake City, Utah, and vicinity.

2nd Income Tax Payment Due

Installment Will Become Delinquent If Unpaid At Close Of Business June 16

Did you arrange to make your federal income tax payment in installments?

If you did, this is to remind you that the second installment is now due and will be delinquent, according to the phraseology of the law, if it isn't paid by the close of business on June 15.

But, ha-ha, that's a Sunday! And so you can take one more day if you want to, or if you need to, and you'll be all right if you get that second installment in by the close of business on Monday, June 16th.

Of course, if you "laid 'er on the line" on March 15th, this doesn't concern you and you have nothing to worry about until next year. Then, by the looks of things, you'll have plenty!

Quicksilver Is Mining Lure

Madre De Oro Acquires Celio Property, First Worked 80 Years Ago

The Madre de Oro company has acquired the old Celio quicksilver mine 10 miles south of the Church and other gold properties it operates near El Dorado.

The old wagon road into the cinabar area is being repaired, the main tunnel reconditioned and preparations made for vigorous development of the new territory.

According to old records, the Celio was first worked more than 80 years ago. It produced a substantial amount of mercury before low price of the metal forced suspension of work. Tests of ore remaining old workings have been encouraging.

Madre de Oro Mines is developing three veins of commercial gold quartz in its Church property and constructing a 200-ton daily capacity mill, which is scheduled to go into service within 60 days.

Equipment includes 20 stamps, 2 ball mills and flotation units.

STOCKTON MAN SUCCUMBS VISITING RELATIVES AT CLARKSVILLE

Samuel F. Fuller, 53, employed at the state mental hospital at Stockton, and visiting for about ten days with relatives at Clarksville, died suddenly Monday evening just after retiring.

Without previous evidence of discomfort, Coroner A. J. Orell learned, Mr. Fuller went to bed and was taken suddenly ill, passing away within a few moments.

Native of McPherson, Kansas, he had lived thirty years in the state, being employed at the institution the past twelve years. His wife survives him. The body was removed to Stockton on Tuesday morning for funeral services and interment.

IDAHO DREDGERS MOVING FROM WARREN TO NEAR ELK CITY

WALLACE, Idaho — Fisher and Baumhoff, pioneer dredge operators in southern Idaho fields, plan to remove 1200 tons of dredging machinery by truck from Warren Meadows to the Bullock ranch about one mile from Elk City. Moving operations are to be started in July, according to report, and a dragline dredge operation started at the Bullock place on a large acreage of placer ground.

WASHINGTON, (UP) — The administration's request for power to draft personal property "of any kind or character" brought charges from President Roosevelt's congressional opponents today that he was heading toward "complete and total dictatorship."

"Communist . . . socialistic" were the terms used by the administration's most vehement critics to describe the request. Even administration supporters were surprised, although most of them declined comment.

The bill was introduced in the senate without comment yesterday by Chairman Robert R. Reynolds, D., N. C., of the military affairs committee at the request of the war department which said it had the approval of President Roosevelt, the navy department and the office of production management.

Immediate congressional reaction indicated that the bill was headed for a battle comparable to those over conscription and the lend-lease act. Republicans almost unanimously opposed it and will be supported by some Democrats.

DEFENSE CRITIC WASHINGTON, (UP) — A sharp and adversely critical analysis of the ability of the army to do its part in national defense hit the war department today and awaits the administration's answer.

Rep. Ross A. Collins, D., Miss., a member for nearly 20 years of the house subcommittee on army appropriations, fired the salvo and demanded that the department "revise defense plans at once." He said a separate air service with its own cabinet department was urgently needed.

Collins said 150,000 mechanized—panzer and air-borne — German troops smashed the French mass army of 5,000,000 troops but that the war department for our national defense is "building another old style mass army." He complained that the training program of 12 months for selectees based on a departmental plan which makes infantry and field artillery the bulk and basic arms never will produce a real or an efficient army. "And today," he said, "we have not one division fit for combat."

Syria Seen As New War Front

Britain And Germany Jockey For Position On Middle East Sector

By UNITED PRESS Great Britain and Germany today appeared to be moving toward a race for Syria which may determine the outcome of summer warfare in the middle east.

The two great powers were jockeying for position with an overt move possible at any time by either side. The Syrian crisis boiled up as the Royal Air Force roared into action against Berlin and other German objectives in the first extensive attack in many days.

Indicating the gravity with which France regards the threat to her mandate in Syria, Marshal Henri Philippe Petain conferred at length with Gen. Maxime Weygand, the French commander in Africa and expert on Syrian strategy.

London feared that unless the British acted swiftly in Syria the Axis would insist that France call upon Germany and Italy to "protect" Syria thus giving an ostensible reason for entry of Axis troops into the area.

LOCHINVAR IN RAGS

by KATHRYN CULVER

Julie Hamilton, small-town Southern girl, regrets her half-hearted engagement to Kenneth Terry. When Barry Caldwell, young Arizona rancher who has met with reverses and is hiking to New York for a radio audition, appears at her door and faints from hunger, she falls in love with him at first sight. She invites him to her birthday party. When he tells her he loves her, she confesses her love for him. He breaks her engagement to Kenneth. A little later, however, to prevent a fight between Barry and Kenneth, she desperately tells Barry she has merely been flirting with him. He is very bitter. The next morning, she is unsuccessfully trying to convince him that she lied to him, when she is interrupted by Iside Fleming, trouble-making visitor from New York, who has been trying to vamp Kenneth Iside tells Barry that Kenneth has challenged him to ride a wild, unbroken horse owned by Kenneth's father. Barry takes the dare, and is thrown when the horse rears and falls over backward.

CHAPTER XVII

THE Negro groom, stationed at a gate, quickly flung it open to let the wild horse into the adjoining field and free the paddock of his menacing presence.

Simultaneously, those perched on the railing had leaped down, and were now rushing to Barry's side—Julie in the lead, her face white.

She knelt beside him. "Barry!" she cried in anguish. But he lay perfectly still.

Then, Normandy was bending over him, feeling his pulse, carefully examining him.

"Get a stretcher!" he shouted to the groom. Then, to Julie, soothingly, "Don't be frightened—he's probably just shaken up a bit."

"Oh he isn't! He isn't! They've killed him! I know it!" Julie wailed. "Black Dynamite! I fell right on top of him!"

"Now, now," said Normandy. "I'm not at all sure about that. I believe Barry managed to fling himself free."

Julie, however, refused to be calmed. As Barry was carefully loaded onto a stretcher and carried to Normandy's car, she looked on with tears streaming down her face.

"I'll rush him to the hospital," Normandy told her, when Barry had been laid on the back seat of the car. "You'd better wait here a while—get hold of yourself—then come along with Kenneth."

Julie merely nodded. She scarcely heard or cared what he was saying—she was too upset. As he drove away with Barry, she looked at the car in a daze, watching it until it disappeared from view.

THEN she became aware that Kenneth was standing beside her, trying to say something to her. She saw that his face was pasty—that he was perspiring profusely.

"This—is this terrible! Julie!" he faltered. "I—I can't tell you how sorry I am. I had no idea—"

Edith cut in coldly. "Isn't it a little late to be feeling sorry?"

Julie didn't say anything. She had turned and was staring at Iside, her eyes bitter with accusation, her lips compressed. It was Iside—not Kenneth—whom she blamed.

Iside snarled under her acquiescent gaze. "Don't look at me like that!" she flared. "It isn't my fault! I thought I was doing him a favor—giving him a chance to earn some money. He didn't have to ride the horse—he did it of his own free will!"

Julie's lips curled contemptuously. "You egged him on until he couldn't refuse!" Her voice faltered, then rose hysterically. "And if—he dies—you're to blame! Do you understand? You! You!"

"Shut up!" Iside shrieked, losing control of herself. "You can't say such things to me! I won't stand for it!"

Julie took a step toward her. "I'll say anything I want and you'll listen!" she said, between clenched teeth. "I've hated and distrusted you from the first moment I saw you! You went after Kenneth tooth and nail when you knew he was engaged to me! That's all right. You can have Ken. Then, last night, you couldn't bear to see another man attentive to me so you tried to spoil my party by exposing Barry. When he didn't work, you got Ken drunk and tried to work up a fight between him and Barry. And now this! If—Barry dies, I'm going to tell the world who's responsible!"

"Why you horrid, lying little—"

"Here, here!" Kenneth quickly stepped between the two girls. "Cut it out, you two!" he growled. "The damage is done. Snarling at each other like a couple of cats won't mend matters."

Julie composed herself with difficulty. "Of course," she said, steadying her voice. "Will—you will please take me to the hospital, Ken?"

"Surely! Come along."

HE LED the way to his coupe. Julie and Edith climbed into the rumble seat, letting Iside sit in front with Ken.

As they drove away, Edith squeezed Julie's arm.

"Good for you!" she whispered. "That was worth a million dollars! I'll bet that hussy has never been told off like that before!"

"Let's not discuss it," Julie said drearily.

She sat tensely, with clenched hands, all the way into town—praying, praying that Barry was going to be all right.

Kenneth stopped first at the Terry house, telling Iside she'd better get out there Iside did so her eyes malignant.

"If looks could kill," Edith murmured, as they drove on. Julie didn't hear. She hadn't even seen the look of hatred Iside had given her.

When they drew up before the hospital, Kenneth climbed out and helped Julie and Edith down.

"I—I suppose," he mumbled, shamefacedly, "that you don't want me to go in with you. He paused, drew a deep breath. "All I can say is that I'm sorry, Julie. I—I wish you'd believe me. I do believe you, Ken. Julie said sincerely. A wisp of a smile flitted across her lips, and she patted his hand. "And of course we want you to come in with us. Inside, in the big reception hall Julie and Edith sat down while Kenneth went to the desk to inquire about Barry. In a few minutes, he returned, his face grave.

"Come on," he said. "We can go up."

"What—what did they say?" Julie faltered, as he led her toward an elevator.

"He's in the Emergency Ward. They don't know."

Aniline Dyes Plentiful
BENEVA N. Y. P.—Aniline dyes used in bacteria to make them more visible under microscopes, have been developed to a point where any emergency can be met, according to Dr. H. J. Conn of the State Experiment Station. Dr. Conn said the worker in American biological laboratories will not face the shortage of dyes as he did in the World War.

So MUCH

Washer for so little Money

Like yourself, we've seen a lot of washers, years and years of them. But never did we see so MUCH washer for so little money, until we set eyes on this new MAYTAG CHIEFTAIN. Famous Maytag long-life construction, new plastic gyrate button-saving damp drive, and a score of these important advantages. We repeat—in all our years of washer experience, we've never seen so much washer for so little money. But don't take our word for it. Come in and see for yourself.

Grilled Frankfurters with ONION-TOMATO Sauce

Dorothy Greig

SOME may like their frankfurters sandwiched hot in a bun at a picnic. But as for me I'll take mine served in civilized fashion on my own dining room table. They're really good then, zesty in flavor, and a dish to be eaten with real enjoyment. For instance, how about grilling them and adding an Onion-Tomato Sauce. It's a simple touch but it turns our picnic friend into a real meat dish for dinner — an easy one, too:

2 teaspoons butter
10 frankfurters

Split the frankfurters lengthwise, brush with butter and broil until browned. Serve Onion Tomato Sauce over the frankfurters.
Onion-Tomato Sauce:
2 tablespoons bacon fat
1 cup onions, sliced
1 can condensed tomato soup
2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon vinegar
Cook the onions in the bacon fat until soft and yellow. Then add the soup, sugar and vinegar and cook 5 minutes longer to blend the flavors.
Serves 6-8.

Around The House

WITH ANN COMFORT

It saves a mother's voice to keep a small white in the kitchen to call the children to meals.

Perhaps there are no better cooks than by avocation, or should I say "chefs?" Dr. George A. Selleck of San Francisco is a chef by avocation who has won national distinction having been recognized by Time Magazine, by Walter Winchell and by G. Selmer Fougner, author of the famous "Gourmet Dinners." You may be sure that there exists a confraternity among connoisseurs of good food. When Alexander Wolcott was in San Francisco Dr. Selleck prepared for him one of his epicurean specialties, "Ink-fish ala Genoese." When Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt, who are almost as famous in the realm of cookery as they are in the theatre, were in San Francisco Dr. Selleck delighted them with one of his truffle specialties.

Never, perhaps, was his mastery of the field of fine foods displayed to such perfection as at the recent Fourth Annual Providence Hospital "al fresco" feast. This was held at the ranch of Dr. Demetrio Jeffry at Clayton fittingly enough as Dr. Jeffry's ranch is on a part of what at one time were the vast holdings of Dr. John Marsh, one of California's first doctors. Dr. Selleck was assisted in the preparation of the menu by George Hall, an authority on menus who has in his collection 61,000 famous menus and no less than 800 books on the art of cookery.

The feast was a stag affair attended by 150 physicians. It is told how the suckling pigs were brought to the ranch in an ambulance, how they were served with the same pomp and ceremony that accompanied the serving of the English boar's head. The sucklings were not only barbecued to perfection but served with artistry. Troubadours and torch bearers accompanied the dish. Dr. Selleck's craftsmanship was evident in the preparation of more than 50 platters that graced the tables.

Many of Dr. Selleck's recipes are adaptable to home barbecue feasts. Through the courtesy of Mrs. Demetrio Jeffry I bring you three of them:

Beans Vinaigrette

For these use canned red kidney beans. Wash the beans thoroughly to remove the shine. Drain. Place in a large bowl, dash well with white vinegar and add finely chopped little fresh onions and minced parsley. Make this preparation one hour before serving. When ready to serve, chop pimiento, green pepper and enough garlic to give the right suggestion. Add another dash of vinegar and a generous sprinkling of olive oil. You can visualize this in a brightly colored bowl. Believe me, it is as good as it looks.

Dressing for Crab a la Selleck

Following the custom set by the shell fish dish known as CLOPPINO the crabs are cleaned thoroughly, cracked but shells are not removed. The dressing is poured over the cracked crab.

For 3 large crabs, use the crab butter which is under the shell of the crab, to this add 1/2 teaspoon dried mustard, salt and pepper, 1 cup mayonnaise, 1/2 cup olive oil, juice of 1/2 large lemon, a generous portion of chopped chives, mince your favorites herbs for flavor and at the last add a dash of white wine — mix thoroughly.

Blend for Marinating Meat to be Barbecued

Take the amount of olive oil necessary for rubbing thoroughly into and over baby beef, lamb or kid. Add a mixture of minced herbs consisting of tarragon, sage, rosemary, marjoram, thyme, parsley and just enough garlic for mystery. Wrap the meat with this blend in oil or wax paper and let stand over night.

A platter that proved a masterpiece was the one consisting of large prawns which had been boiled in salt water and cooled. With the prawns were hearts of artichoke. I did not get the dressing for this but one similar to the dressing for crab omitting the crab butter adding instead tiny strips of green pepper would be excellent.

For that June bridal shower which by the way, originated in Holland—doesn't it beat the Dutch to think that they were the first to institute this practice, have:

Upsy-Daisy Salad

1 pkg. lemon-flavored gelatin, 1 cup hot water, 2 cups grapefruit sections, mayonnaise, 1/2 cup grated raw carrot, salt to season, lettuce. Stir gelatin in hot water until dissolved. Drain grape fruit, using 1 cup of the juice which is added to gelatin mixture. Chill until syrupy, add grated carrots, diced grapefruit sections and salt. Pour into molds and chill.

NEWTOWN REALTY DEAL IS BASIS OF LAW SUIT

In a complaint on file Tuesday in Superior Court, Les Blackwell and Elizabeth Blackwell are plaintiffs against Emil A. Ferrari and others, seeking to rescind their agreement to purchase from the defendants one hundred eighty acres in the Newtown district, and claiming damages of $2,983. They allege the plans was misrepresented to them, and claim damages as owing for money spent in improvement of the property, and for the loss of certain livestock in an attempt to operate the property.

Ernest Hanley suffered an eye injury Monday while working at Beach's Fox Factory. He reports that some foreign object apparently entered the eye. He is under a doctor's care.

Remember When?

Back in Mother's day, girls weren't in the swim if they didn't wear leg-o-mutton sleeves, frilled collars and picture hats. Popular pastimes were meeting the daily local train and riding in the town's only "horseless carriage." Remember when? We are indebted to W. B. Curtis, advertising manager of the Mobilgas marketers, for supplying these old-time pictures.

BIG FOUR OPERATORS HAVE LEASE ON GARDINER PROPERTY

The Big Four lease, developing the Gardiner gold property three miles north of Kelsey, is driving a tunnel to contact the ore body approximately 300 feet from the portal and preparing to resume sinking of the 60-foot shaft.

Los Angeles investors are reported to have become associated with G. L. Smith and partners in the property.

On the 50-foot level of the shaft drifting is said to have exposed several small veins and seams carrying high values in gold. The richer ore is reported to sample around $140 per ton.
